Overview

The Fly America Act is a federal regulation that applies to travel funded by the U.S. Federal Government, including University of Missouri federally funded sponsored projects. The Act requires the use of U.S. flag carriers, or foreign air carriers that code share with a U.S. flag carrier, for all air travel and cargo transportation services funded by the U.S. Government, unless specific exceptions apply. By law, additional cost for U.S. carrier flights is not sufficient justification to fly on foreign carriers.

Flights that comply with the Fly America Act will have the U.S. flag air carrier's designator code and flight number on tickets or associated documentation (e.g., boarding pass or e-ticket itinerary for all legs of a trip for which the U.S. carrier flights are available).

Risk

If not compliant, travel costs could be deemed unallowable and any money reimbursed would be returned to the Federal Government.

Responsibilities

Principal Investigator:

Ensure that all foreign travel charged to federal prime or federally funded sponsored project, including pass-through funding is in compliance with this regulation.

Fiscal Reviewer:

Ensure expense reports are in compliance with this regulation.

Fly America Act Exceptions

Open Skies Agreement

The primary exception to the Fly America Act are Open Skies Agreements. These agreements are bilateral or multilateral transport agreements between the United States Government and select foreign countries which allow the federally funded use of foreign air carriers in certain circumstances. Rights afforded to travel under Open Skies Agreements do not apply to travel funded by the Secretary of Defense or the Secretary of a military department such as the Air Force, Army or Navy.

Additional Exceptions

Other strictly limited circumstances in which an exception may be allowed include:

- a U.S. flag carrier does not provide service on a particular leg of your trip,

- the use of a U.S. carrier will unreasonably delay your travel time
- you are involuntarily rerouted, or
- medical or safety reasons.

Codeshare Agreement

A codeshare agreement is a business arrangement where two or more airlines share the same flight. In a codeshare, each airline publishes and markets the flight under its airline designator and flight number as part of its published timetable or schedule. All airlines are obligated to inform the traveler of code share flights. All travelers must confirm a U.S. carrier code and flight number is documented on a codeshare flight or it cannot be charged to a federally funded project.
